Speaker's Biography

Tim Hiller is the author of the book Strive and a highly sought after speaker in the areas of leadership development, faith, and discovering purpose.

A former NFL and record-setting collegiate quarterback, Tim now uses his gifts, talents, and experiences to serve and better others. Tim directs the personal, professional, and leadership development efforts of the Instruments division of Stryker, a Fortune 500 medical technologies firm based in Michigan. In addition, Tim is the co-founder and owner of Next Level Performance (www.nlathlete.com), which builds leadership and character in student-athletes through the platform of athletics. Hiller and his wife Michelle and son Daniel reside in Kalamazoo, Michigan.

Praise for Strive

“In navigating the ups and downs of life, having a coach or mentor has proven invaluable for me. In Strive, Tim Hiller offers us wise and Godly coaching for our own journey.”

– Danny Wuerffel
1996 Heisman Trophy Winner, Quarterback, University of Florida
Executive Director, Desire Street Ministries

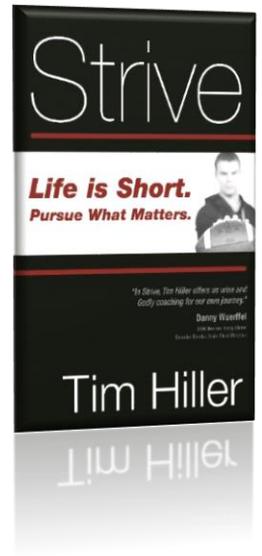

“Read Tim’s book and see an example of someone who has got it right. Tim doesn’t claim to be perfect but I believe he has outlined how someone can live life following the ‘right path’.”

– Bobby Bowden
2 Time National Champion Head Coach, Florida State University
Winningest Head Coach in major college football

“A beautifully written, incredibly positive, very addictive guide that is packed with valuable insights that will help you on your journey in life—one step, one week at a time. I found myself learning and inspired to become a better person with each passing entry.”

– Adrian Gostick
